Nelwood Wines is owned by viticulturalists, who have a record of consistently producing grapes of the highest quality. Grapes grown on the Nelwood vineyards are sought by large Australian processors for their premium labels. Making and marketing wines is a natural extension for the partners who have been involved in the wine and viticultural industry for three generations. We believe that wine is a unique expression of the land and the people who care for it, in fact we believe that great wine, in essence, is grown. We decided if we brought together the best people, the best equipment and the best fruit, we could make a great wine - with emphasis on great! In fact, that is our real challenge- great wine.
